Tonight's Game "THE LABOR DAY CLASSIC"

By DeBorah A. Thigpen, Sports Information Director, Prairie View A&M University, August 31, 1985

Throw away the records. Down with the standings. It's the first annual Labor Day Classic of rivalry that dates back to 1948 when the Panthers and Tigers first met on the gridiron. Both teams meet tonight for the first game of the season and only one team will walk away with Texas Bragg-ing rights.

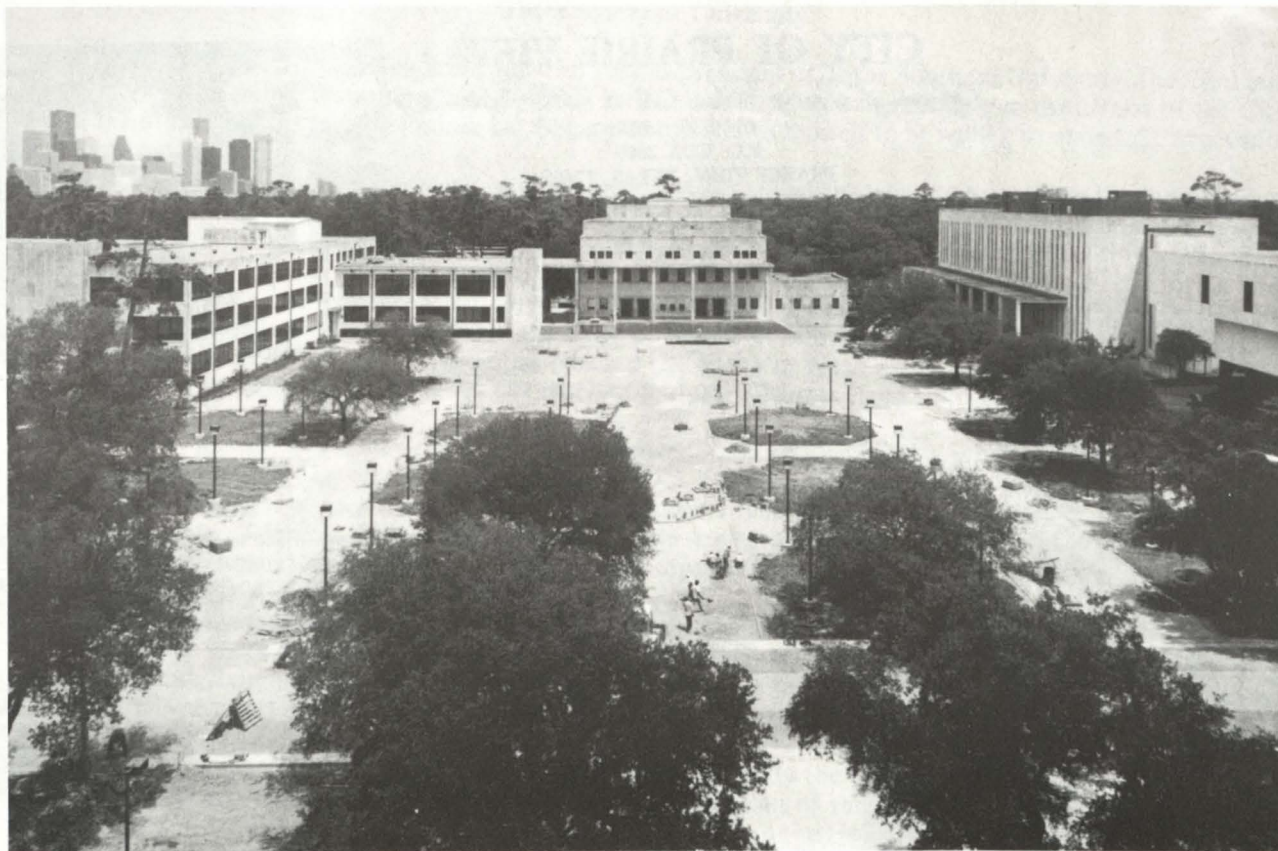

Up until tonight the "War of Words" has been going on all summer. Each team is saying what he will do to the opponent. The TSU 1985 battle cry is "TSU Football Going Over The Hump" while the Panthers shout "Comin' Alive in '85".

For you record keepers who are just itching to recall the score, the Tigers hold a narrow 21-18 lead in the series, having dominated the meetings between the two schools over the last 17 years. The Panthers have two wins since 1976, 22-15, and 20-6, 1978. TSU has won the last six consecutive games between the two, and the Tigers have won 15 of the last 17 meetings.

Prairie View's All-American Candidate Michael Lomax hasn't forgotten the mauling the Tigers put on his team last year (51-0). "That was last year" says Lomax "When we hit the field tonight it will be a new game." Teammates Earnest Brow, quarterback, Darren "Big Mac" McAllister, defensive line, Eric Gray, offensive line, Cravon Rogers, running back, and the Secret Weapon, Faata Tumanuvao, all agree with Lomax.

Two of the principles hoping to guide the Tigers over the hump are senior Johnny Cole, quarter-back and Stephen Baker, a nose-guard.

Tigers Coach Lionel Taylor and Panthers coach Conway Hayman aren't making any predic-tions, but you can believe each coach has told his team to go out tonight and KICK - - .

WORK IS rapidly progressing transforming the former parking lot in front of TSU's Hannah Hall Auditorium into a beautiful mall. The mall setting will provide TSU family members with a beautiful exterior physical environment within the interior-campus that can be utilized in a number of ways. ## Dr. Leonard H.O. Spearman

Dr. Leonard H.O. Spearman
PRESIDENT
Texas Southern University

Dr. Leonard H.O. Spearman is beginning his fifth year as president of Texas Southern University, the third largest predominantly Black public institution in the nation. At the university and increasingly in the affairs of the City of Houston, the State of Texas and the nation, Dr. Spearman has shown himself to be willing to undertake new ventures and explore new opportunities.

Dr. Spearman's interest in education and in young people is not surprising when one considers that he was literally born and grew up on a college campus. He is a native of Florida (Tallahassee). His father was a chaplain at Florida A & M University, and so the son got his elementary, secondary, and undergraduate collegiate education at Florida A & M, and returned there later as a faculty member. He is a specialist in psychology, with degrees from Florida A & M and from the University of Michigan where he received the master's and doctorate in psychology. In addition to his faculty services at his alma mater, Dr. Spearman has also taught at Southern University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana (Where he was also dean of the lower college); at Howard University in Washington, D.C.; and at several other well-known institutions of higher education. He has received honorary degrees from colleges and universities across the country.

Dr. Spearman's interest in young people led him into government service in 1970, when he became director of the Division of Student Special Services in what was then the U.S. Office of Education. He remained in Washington for ten years, having oversight of such programs as Upward Bound, Talent Search, Student Special Services, Educational Opportunity Centers, Veterans' Cost of Instruction, and the several Federal Student Financial Aid Programs.

During his federal tenure, he received many honors, including the highest award given by the U.S. Office of Education - THE SUPERIOR SERVICE AWARD.

His HEW Distinguished Service Award cites Dr. Spearman "For Demonstrating Outstanding Management Ability Under Exceptional Circumstances, and Greatly Improving Cooperation and Understanding Between the Higher Education Community and the Federal Government." When he left the federal government to become president of Texas Southern University in 1980, he had risen to the position of associate deputy assistant secretary for higher and continuing education.

Since coming to Texas Southern, Dr. Spearman has been appointed to the Governor's Task Force on Equal Opportunity in Higher Education and was just recently appointed chairman of the National Advisory Board on International Education Programs, and this year was named the first Black to the Houston Chamber of Commerce Board of Directory. He has been elected to membership on the board of directors of the American Council on Education, and is a member of the Governor's Advisory Commission on Presidential Leadership, and the board of directors of the Sam Houston Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Dr. Spearman's busy schedule has not prevented him from authoring several publications which have attracted nationwide attention.

THE PRESIDENT

(409) 857-2111

GREETINGS!!!

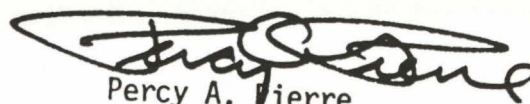

This renewal of the traditional rivalry between Prairie View A&M University and Texas Southern University serves to call attention to the tremendous contributions these two institutions have made to the State of Texas and the Nation. The thousands of alumni here today are living testimony to that contribution.

Prairie View has undergone a reaffirmation of service through academic excellence. We have begun with the basics such as new and renovated facilities, a reinvigorated library that is adding 2000 books per month, new equipment for our laboratories, and new computers to serve the entire University.

Scholars from throughout the nation have recently joined us as well as hundreds of highly motivated students.

While we are pleased with progress to date, we realize that the goal of academic excellence is one that we must continue to pursue. The faculty, staff, students and alumni are dedicated to that task.

Sincerely,

Percy A. Pierre
President

ATHLETIC DIRECTORS

Lionel Taylor begins his second season as a Head Football Coach and as the Head Coach at Texas Southern University. Last season, coach Taylor led the Tigers to the brink of their first winning season since 1977, finishing with a 5-6 record after a 3-2 start. An offensive innovator, Taylor turned the TSU offense from a sputtering, inconsistent unit, to one of the most explosive and fine tuned offenses in the country. Taylor was successful both as a professional receiver and later as an assistant coach on the professional and collegiate levels.

After enjoying a successful collegiate career at New Mexico Highlands University, he played a season with the Chicago Bears of the NFL. He then moved on to the Denver Broncos of the newly formed AFL in 1960, where he became one of the prolific receivers in the league's history. In seven seasons with the Broncos, Taylor set the standards by which future AFL receivers would be judged. He still owns or shares 11 Bronco teams records. He remains the Broncos' career yardage, receptions and touchdown leader. Last year the Broncos bestowed the highest honor that can be given to one of their former players when they inducted Taylor into their "Circle of Fame."

Before ending his career with the Houston Oilers in 1967, he was the AFL's all-time leading receiver totaling 7,105 yards and 51 touchdowns on 563 receptions. He was the first AFL player to catch 100 passes in one season and he led the AFL in receiving for five seasons, gaining better than 1,000 yards in four of those seasons.

Lionel Taylor

Upon retiring as a player, Taylor returned to alma mater to launch what has proven to be an equally successful career as a coach. He served as the offensive coordinator at New Mexico from 1967 to 69. In 1970, he joined the Pittsburgh Steelers as the receiver coach. With the Steelers, Taylor coach in two Super Bowl games and was partly responsible for the success of the Steelers' outstanding receiving trio of Lynn Swan, John Stallworth and Frank Lewis. After leaving the Steelers in 1977, he moved to the Los Angeles Rams where he served as the receiver coach until 1980, at which time he became the offensive coordinator. As the Rams' offensive mastermind, he molded them into the No. 1 ranked offense in the NFL and was largely responsible for the Rams making it to the Super Bowl that same year.

After a brief hiatus away from coaching, he returned to the collegiate ranks to coach receivers at Oregon State University.

Taylor came to TSU from OSU and his arrival signalled a new era in Tiger football. In this the year of the Tigers Going Over the Hump, coach Taylor hopes that this will be his most successful season ever.

He earned his B.A. degree from New Mexico Highlands University in 1958 and has done post baccalaureate work at Denver University in Business Administration.

Taylor and his wife Lorencita, have two daughters, Loretta and LaVern.

MR. BRUTUS N. JACKSON, A. D.

When Brutus N. Jackson was named Prairie View A&M University's new Director of Athletics in January 1984, he said at the time, "I'd like to rebuild a first class athletic program...I am looking forward to the challenge of directing the athletic program at a great university with great tradition."

Approaching his second year on the job, Jackson has done exactly that. He has begun to build a strong program of first class quality. To his new job, he has brought many vibrantly fresh ideas and a very business-like approach to accomplishing the objectives he set out for himself and the department.

Already, the entire Prairie View community as well as the metropolitan Houston area and the Southwestern states have begun to see and feel the impact of his efforts. PV's Athletic twelve varsity sports programs began making inroads as one of the SWAC (Southwestern Athletic Conference) fearsome competitors. The women's track team has won two national championships and two conference championships in the last two years; while the women's basketball team was the number seven most improved team in the NCAA in 1984. The men's basketball team has come full-tilt over the past year to become a strong competitor in the conference, and will travel to play Marquette University in Wisconsin this season. Revenues from football are on the rise along with the spirit of the football players and coaching staff. The other five men's sports are making progressive strides towards excellence; while 1985 will be the first year for women's volleyball and women's tennis will be reinstated.

Within the department, there is a new sense of excitement and optimism about the future. Fund-raising has increased significantly. Exposure locally, regionally and nationally has increased. New staff members have been hired to enhance the betterment of individual sports respectively and the entire athletic department as a whole. New lines of duties and responsibilities have been delegated; all of which has led to more efficiency and productivity. Revenues from football and basketball are increasing and interest in and an awareness of PV athletics has grown markedly among students faculty, staff, alumni and the Prairie View community.

From day one, Jackson has had strong convictions about Prairie View as an academic institution and about the potential for greatness of its athletic department. Jackson's presence for the past seventeen years on the newly landscaped campus of Prairie View A&M has brought him numerous honors, awards, and respect from professional societies in education and business community.
