New Bulletin Boards

The three bulletin boards which have been erected on our campus are under the supervision of Mr. C. A. Wood, Public Information Officer. Any items of news of interest to the Prairie View Family will be placed on these boards free of charge. Items must be submitted to Mr. Wood's office for possible editing and will be put in good form. This is a conscious attempt to end writing on walks and miscellaneous announcements on miscellaneous scraps of paper.

A Many-Splendored Place

According to several reviews a foreign lady, with the interesting name of Han, has written an excellent book with a beautifully phrased title - "A Many-Splendored Thing." Although the locale of her narrative is far there, there are many many-splendored things, and many many-splendored places. Without ascribing to the place perfection which, of course, is impossible, Prairie View, if you take time to notice, is a many-splendored place.

Among the things that contribute to its many-splendoredness are: A beautiful afternoon, like Thursday, with the spring wind off the grassy hill to the south of the campus which had just a tang of gulf salt in its freshness. . . The little girlishness of Barbara Wood as she walked unhurriedly, cross-wise the wind, homeward from her dad's office. . . Those near pigeon-size blackbirds on the library lawn. Immelodious though their chirpings, achieving a kind of grace and elegance as they flutter here and there looking for whatever near pigeon-size blackbirds look for on a green grassy lawn. . . These mornings when great moss-colored masses of clouds move silently, swiftly northward. . . Our trees, those devoid of foilage, standing silhouetted against the horizon, bared limbs raised skyward in seeming silent supplication.

A many-splendored place??? Well, what do you look for????
