YOUR WEEK

HAIL! THE CHIEF

If Prairie View has a mechanical heart or nerve center it is probably located in the local steam plant. For emanating from this plant, like life-carrying arteries, are the utility lines which make Prairie View livable. Twenty four hours per day the steam plant functions, but not without human engineers who perform myriad duties which keep it operative. Top man among the engineers is "Chief" F G Fry.

"Chief" Fry is the unassuming possessor of a brilliant mind which operates much more efficiently than any piece of the steam plant's well-oiled machinery. The "Chief" is as much at home on the lecturer's platform or in the classroom as he is supervising repairs to intricate machinery or driving the local fire truck. He has the graceful art of making the solution to seemingly insoluble problems quite easy. Kindly, polite, and generous, the "Chief" serves Prairie View as well or better than does his steam plant.
