Teachers Told:

Teach as Much Grammar and Fundamentals as Possible

Whether one uses the functional approach, or teaches grammar as an end in itself, an English instructor should "teach as much grammar and fundamentals as possible, by the most effective method, as often as the need arises."

This was the majority opinion of a panel which discussed: "The Pros and Cons of Teaching English" in the afternoon during the fourth annual Language-Arts Institute held at Prairie View A. & M. College on Saturday, March 9.

The discussion centered around:

1. Grammar in high school and college—how much is to be taught and how?

2. What college teachers would like entering freshmen to know and minimum standards required for high school graduates.

3. High school standards as seen by the college English teacher; college English standards as seen by the high school English teacher.

Panelists included three high school teachers of English and three college instructors. They were: Mrs. Zerline Prater, Miss Katie Stewart, Mrs. Jewell Ross, high school; Mrs. J. Marie McCleary, Mr. Theodore Talbot, Mr. Hubert Smith, college.

At the General Assembly which began at 9:00 A.M., Dr. Hugh Glosster, chairman, Communications Center at Hampton Institute, delivered the keynote address—"The Challenge of Motion Pictures, Recordings, Radio, and Television in the Teaching of English." Dr. Anne L. Campbell, head, Department of English, introduced the speaker.

Since the absence of Museums in some American towns and cities deprives many citizens of an opportunity to see artistic works, this corporation is interested in reducing such lacks of cultural exposure.

Negro History Week Observed

In its annual observance of National Negro History Week, the Department of History and Philosophy, under the guidance of Dr. Ruble Woolfolk, cooperated with the Department of Music under Dr. Rudolph von Charleton; the Student Project Committee of the School of Arts and Sciences under Dr. T. P. Dooley; the Music Club under Mr. Don Lee White and the Reverend Mr. Pearson and his choir. All cooperated in presenting a program of outstanding interest and informational value.

Under the Chairmanship of Mr. Broadus B. Jackson, the first event featured Dr. Frederick Hall, Chairman of Music at Southern University, who gave a lecture-demonstration address which highlighted the place of the Negro Spiritual in the life and history of the Negroes in the United States. His subject was "Romance of the Negro Spiritual". He was assisted by Dr. Rudolph von Charleton and Mr. Tallie Moeze of the Department of Music.

The second program under the chairmanship of Mr. George Sinkler, involved a stirring song-fest conducted by the Rev. Mr. Pearson and his choir, who led the audience. The meeting met the approbation of both students and faculty.

The third presentation, under the Chairmanship of Mr. Purvis M. Carter, featured Dr. J. Mason Brewer, noted folklorist, who presented a most unusual lecture in the form of poetry readings which included many of his works. His subject was "The Negro in the History and Literature of Texas."

Receptions followed both lectures, and these affairs represented the best in detail and atmosphere.

An adjunct to the entire celebration was a poster and essay contest, supervised by Mr. George Sinkler, which saw the awarding of prizes to two students for their work in two portions of the contest. They were: Cecil Strickland and Ruby Adams. All in all, the observance was considered to have been an educational and artistic achievement.

Business Club Issues Stock

SHIRLEY J. MORTON REPORTER

The Business students have adopted a name for their club. It will be called BA & BE Incorporated. The students used a new and entirely different method of obtaining membership. This was done in the form of a Stock Market which the students set up on the campus on March 5, 1957. Shares of stock was issued to the majors and minors of the Department. This idea motivated the students to a great degree of interest and gave them a feeling of being a member of the club as well as a stockholder. This proved to be very successful with the effort put forth by the stockbrokers. They are: Samuel C. Jackson, Joyce McCann, Nolah Jackson, George Francois, Melton Harris, Glorinda Tipps and others.

Famed Conductor Featured with Augustana Choir

Henry Veld, conductor and founder of the Augustana Choir, which presented a full evening concert in College Auditorium on March 26, 1957, was selected to conduct the 2,000 voice choir at the opening session of the World Council of Churches Assembly held in Soldiers Field, Chicago.

This recognition by the Protestant church would of Mr. Veld's ability as a choral conductor, further enhanced the already distinguished reputation Mr. Veld has gained for himself as well as for the choir during the 28 years he has been a member of the music faculty at Augustana College.

In addition to his teaching and conducting at Augustana, Veld is currently in his sixth year as director of the Apollo Musical Club of Chicago. He is the first conductor of the 85 year old chorus who is a native of the Windy City.

One of two men selected by the army to conduct soldier choruses at the army university center abroad at the close of World War II, Mr. Veld led a chorus of 80 voices which appeared with the London Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall, London. He conducted the same chorus when made a series of recordings under the sponsorship of Boosey and Hawks, London music publisher. Veld spent some time organizing choral groups in the occupation units in Germany.

Mr. Veld, who heads the voice department at the college, is a member of the American Academy of Teachers of Singing. Membership in this national organization is limited to less than 40 teachers who have proved themselves outstanding among teachers in the singing profession. Last year he was named to Who's Who in America.

Numerous requests each year for the Augustana Choir Conductor's services at university summer sessions and at music festivals and clinics throughout the country are additional testimony to Henry Veld's reputation as an outstanding choral and voice teacher.

Harris Represents P. V. at Pershing Rifle Assembly

On March 8, 1957, Cadet Sergeant First Class Bobby R. Harris attended an assembly of the 12th Regiment of the National Society of Pershing Rifles which was held at Oklahoma A. & M. College, Stillwater, Oklahoma. Cadet Harris was a representative of Company "Q," the local Chapter of the Pershing Rifles.

Cadet Harris arrived at Oklahoma A. & M. College on Friday, 8 March 1957 at 9:00 A.M. He immediately attended the Company Commanders Meeting which was just getting underway when he arrived. At 11:00 A.M., he attended the general assembly and observed the election of the new Regimental Commander for the 12th Regiment. During the afternoon SFC Harris was present at the S-3 committee meeting at which various phases of training and operations were discussed.

That evening at 6:00 a Banquet was held honoring Cadet SFC Harris and nineteen other members of the Pershing Rifles attending the Regimental Assembly. After the Banquet, a dance was given for all members of the Pershing Rifles attending the Assembly.

On Saturday morning March 9, Cadet Harris was present at the Weapons Competitions during which Individual and Crew-served weapons were disassembled and assembled by teams from various units. At 11:00, Cadet Harris attended the Platoon and Squad Competition at which the various units competed for awards and prizes by demonstrating their proficiency in the execution of Face Movements and the Manual of Arms.

Cadet Harris' visit to Oklahoma A. & M. was climaxed by attending the final general assembly where the presentation of prizes and awards was made. According to Cadet SFC Bobby R. Harris, the Pershing Rifles Regimental Assemblous Augustana Choir in concert, the new recording by World Records of a program such as the group might do on tour will be a familiar treat. This disc lives up to the highest expectations, particularly in the featured work, the Mass in G minor by Vaughan Williams. Henry Veld puts his organization through the paces of this capella work with fine style and a superb finish. Little, no nothing, is left to be desired. The remainder of the program consists of two Schubert numbers by the Wennerberg Chorus (women's voices), just as they do on the stage."

In the Saturday Review, the column, "From the Campus", carried the following review of the long-play Word Record, No. 4001: "To be sure, it helps to have such an excellent collegiate asset as the Augustana Choir of Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois, which shows its prowess in works of Britten, Bach, Ralph Vaughan-

Williams, etc. This group has toured widely and won the approval of critics nationwide for its finesse and discipline, attesting to the painstaking effort of Henry Veld, its conductor."

A recent issue of Choral and Organ Guide published this review of the choir's RCA-Victor record: "If you like good choral singing—and who doesn't?—you'll like this 12-inch LP. Intonation is accurate, diction excellent, discipline apparent. The present disc is the latest issue of a series of recordings that were started fifteen years ago, including eleven RCA Victor Red Seal records. The Choir has more than eighty special nationwide radio network broadcasts in the United States and Canada and has had several important television appearances. This is a splendid record of achievement and is certainly a credit and tribute to the abilities of the conductor."

ly was an enjoyable and memorable occasion and he hopes that he will be fortunate enough to be among those who are accorded the opportunity to attend the Regimental Assembly next year.

Crescendo News

By CLYDE COBB, JR., Club Reporter

The month of February was a very important month for Club Crescendo. We look forward each year to initiation. This year we are happy to congratulate our new brothers, made on February 28, 1957. Most of our neophyte brothers had a hectic time, but it paid off in the end.

We thank our Potentate, John Protho; Dean and Assistant Dean of Pledgees, Clarence Sims and Eddie Williams; and Cabinet members for making initiation a success.

The Vesper program rendered February 17, 1957 was one among many productions of Club Crescendo. This was a splendid program presented to the faculty and student body and given under the title "Musical Moods for the Evening Hour."

The Sweetheart Serenade was a grand affair. All of the 103 Brothers of Crescendo made this a beautiful event which will always be remembered by each of us. Features of the Serenade were the presentation of a bouquet to the President of Club 26, a bouquet of Carnations in the Club colors to Miss Crescendo Homecoming Helen Muse, of individual long-stemmed Carnations to the Sweethearts of Crescendo, the singing of the Club songs, and finally, the Promenade. Truly a magnificent sight!

March 28, 1957, brings one of the long waited-for social events of the year, the Fourth Annual Crescendo Talent Show Case. This year the Brothers of Crescendo are bringing the best of talent ever presented with the greatest Show Case ever. It will be "loaded" with the best of songs, dances, jokes and orchestra selections. Don't Miss It!

The climaxing event of the year which is talked about during the entire school session is gradually making its way to the front—The Annual Black-and-White Ball. It is given with our Sister Club 26, who present their debutante Sisters to the campus. Hope all our readers get lucky and make it. Something to look forward to? You bet!
